(Last updated on 29 April 2019)

1. Introduction

illion TenderLink's Policy sets out the rules which apply to the use of illion TenderLink's Services.

This Policy is to prevent exploitation, fraud, and abuse of illion TenderLink's Services, including free portal access and document download features.

2. illion TenderLink's Services

Procurement portal service: This service allows illion TenderLink's procurement portal customers ("Customer") to advertise eRFx opportunities to their own private suppliers, or publically across illion TenderLink's network of suppliers via illion TenderLink's paid notification service.

Free access to procurement portal service: This service allows free access to illion TenderLink's procurement portal network, which is designed for suppliers who have a supply relationship (or are hoping to develop a supply relationship) with a Customer. Access is provided so that a Customer can invite suppliers to directly respond to an eRFx opportunity, or a supplier can respond directly to any public eRFx opportunity published by the procurement organisation who has licensed the portal on which they have registered. A supplier can download relevant documents and respond directly to the Customer as part of the eRFx management process.

Document download service: Document download service is provided to registered users to access eRFx documents for the purpose of responding to opportunities published by Customers. This facilitates a direct connection between a supplier and the Customer through the eRFx advertising, response collection, and eRFx award process. illion TenderLink provides available documents directly to suppliers who are intending to respond to an eRFx opportunity, allowing interested suppliers to download documents free of charge.

(collectively "illion TenderLink's Services")
